Supervisor Branson favors scenic easements, wider CV Road

By GINNIE DREW

Monterey County's newest supervisor, Willard Branson, has a definite philosophy about his handling of that job. Branson, who is a Carmel Valley resident, was named recently to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Tom Hudson.

When we talked with him about his responsibilties and approach to the duties of his new post, he said that above all he would be as objective as possible.

"As soon as you insert personalities or emotions into a matter, people's hackles rise and you sit on opposite sides of the table, instead of working toward a solution together," he reflected.

"I don't look for problems...I look for solutions," he added.

"There is a book I refer to every day called 'The Greatest Thing in the World.' There is a statement in that book by Henry Drummond that it's not hard to give up our rights; these are often external. The most difficult thing to give up is ourselves. This I am going to try to do.

"If I can give up emotions and prejudices (which every man has) to work out what is best, not only for the Valley, but for every matter on which I am working, then I know I will do a good job. This is what I want to do...and this is what I'm going to do," Branson said emphatically.

Speaking on specific questions relevant to our immediate area, Branson had views on the supervisors' responsibilities to the Planning Commission and appeals, the Carmel Valley Road, scenic easements, tax assessments, and the general growth and development of the unincorporated Valley area.

Having served on the Planning Commission, Branson said he knows the hours of work and research that go into every decision that is handed down.

"Without criticizing my fellow supervisors, there have been times when I have been amazed and astonished when Planning Commission decisions have been reversed." The planning commission studies the recommendations of the advisory boards before acting.

WILLARD BRANSON

"I feel that in Carmel Valley we have excellent advisory boards, but sometimes there are factors that come into a decision that they were not aware of. In that case, as a commissioner, I called and explained why we acted as we did.

SCENIC EASEMENTS

"The democratic process is built in with progression from the individual, to the Advisory Board to the Planning Commission to the Board of Supervisors. To support that right, I like to see the possibility of a reversal at Board level or even by a higher authority, but I feel that we must be very careful about reversing decisions that have been carefully considered by earlier authorities."

In the matter of scenic easements, on which he will be required to vote in his new position as supervisor, Willard Branson also has definite views.

"I won't speak of specific pieces of property," he said, "but if we have a hillside or a meadow that presents a view of great aesthetic value, it is certainly worthwhile to preserve this as open space. If a man dedicates this under a scenic easement deed, he certainly will get tax relief for this, and probably a great amount, but we have to pay one way or another for scenic easement...if the tax relief is not granted then, the person will probably press for development and then we would really lose.

"I can understand people being concerned about taking land off the tax rolls, but then they have to be consistent and use this approach in all matters. How can they then turn around and deny a development that would bring in a great deal on tax money?"

Commenting on growth in the Valley, Branson said that he felt we cannot be completely tourist-oriented ...nor can we put a barrier across the road and keep a growing population out.

"The next thing is to have well-planned growth and keep the open beauty to the greatest possible extent. But we have to allow things that fit in with this and still contribute to our tax income. I think Del Mesa Carmel has proved to be a beautiful development, bringing quality-type people and a good tax base into Carmel Valley. Also the Country Club has been accepted. It seems to me that these are more fitting than a strip of commercialism going up the Valley.

"We think this sort of thing cannot happen to us, but it has in some places. There are areas in this state where the decision to hold the line has been made and kept. I think we will hold the line in Carmel Valley. Active groups such as the property owners organizations, will help us hold our equilibrium.

CV Community Center to elect new officers at annual meet March 30

The annual meeting of the Carmel Valley Community Center, Inc., will be held on Thursday, March 30, at the Community Center building on Ford Road, at 8 p.m. All members and residents are invited to attend. 1967 membership cards will be issued at the meeting and anyone who wishes to join may do so at that time. Family membership is $5, which is used to maintain and improve the Center.

Included in the business agenda are reports on the swimming pool, building program, financial report, results of the membership drive and plans for the coming year's activities.

The nominating committee is working on a slate to be presented for new officers and several board vacancies will be filled.

All residents are invited to become members of the Carmel Valley Community Center and take an active part in the affairs of the pool and Center.

The Community Center was established for just that purpose...a central place where recreational, civic and social gatherings could be held by both children and adults of Carmel Valley. Additional service to the community came when the swimming pool was built, with the Carmel Unified School District maintaining the pool and providing free swimming lessons to the youth of the district. Last year the bath house was completed to give dressing room facilities.

During the past year the Carmel Valley Youth Organization was chartered and plays a large part in the activities of the Cen-

Plans discussed to continue CV Amigos, Fiesta

Eighteen people representing 15 Carmel Valley organizations met at a luncheon meeting at the Plaza Linda last Thursday to discuss the possibility of holding a second annual Fiesta de los Amigos this fall. Last year's Fiesta was held Sept. 24 at the Holman Ranch.

Mrs. Larry Cummings, co-chairman of last year's event, presided over the casual gathering of people who all favored continuing the Fiesta tradition, pending approval of their various clubs.

Dick McKenzie, Ken Van Hagen and Mrs. Bill Norton were appointed as an organizing committee, with Oley Dick (last year's co-chairman with Mrs. Cummings) and Attorney Rex Pryer as advisors. The committee was to meet this week to decide on a general chairman and set dates for the Fiesta (the consensus of opinion at last week's meeting was that it should be a two-day affair).

Organization representatives at the luncheon were Clyde Hitchcock and Carl Maiser of the Lions Club; Dick McKenzie, CV Horsemen's Association; Bob Angell, Trail and Saddle Club; Ruth Stowers, Lionettes; Charlie Gansel and Raz Belleci, Volunteer Fire Dept.; Ken Van Hagen, Chamber of Commerce and Little League; George Clifford, Kiwanis and Community Center; Jeannine Bottaro, Sodality; Jacob Zarski, Garden Association; Thelma Lee, Tularcitos Parents Club; Mrs. Al Friedenthal and Elizabeth Hoisington, Women's Club; Harriet Busick, Community Chapel Guild; Lois Deal, Youth Organization, Inc.

Parents Club to meet

The Tularcitos Parents Club meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 28, in the multi-purpose room, at 8 p.m.

Candidates running for election to the Carmel Unified School District board of trustees will be the speakers for the program. Each candidate will present his background and the educational point of view which he feels qualifies him to fill one of the three vacancies on the board. Seven candidates are running for the positions. Incumbents Steven Sassoon and Hilton Bialek will run for re-election. Others who have filed for the election are Richard Wilsdon, Dorothy Jones, Thomas Moore, Agnese Martineau, and Curtis Pringle.

Little League

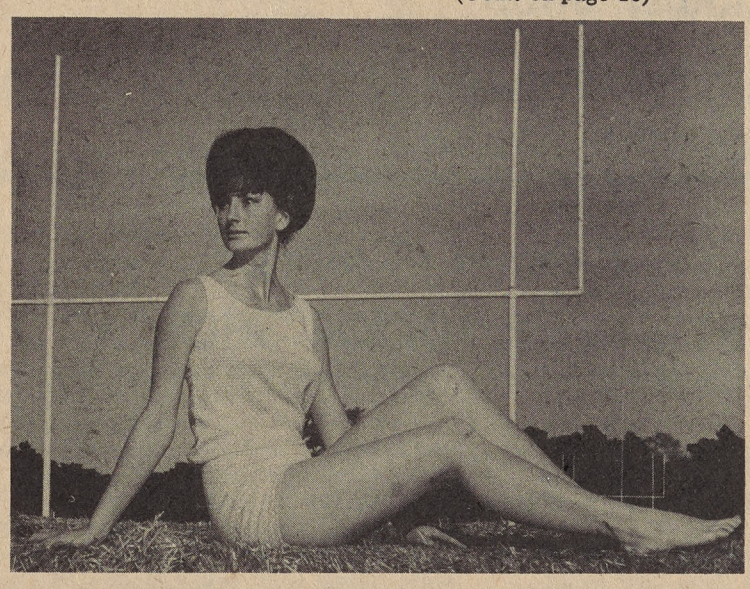
There will be another sign-up this Saturday of Little League players

Player agent Rex Pryer advises them to bring one parents and, if they are new players, a birth certificate.

A $10 fee is charged per family to cover insurance and equipment.

Local merchants are being given first chance for 4x8' ads on the Little League Park fence, at $35 a year or $25 two-year contract.

"We need help this coming Saturday for another work day on the park," declared Ken Van Hagen.



MANY A RUGBY touchdown or drop kick will be made with Queen Robin Saunders to cheer the ball between the goalposts during the Monterey Rugby Tournament to be held at the Carmel Middle School athletic fields on Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Sixteen teams will compete for the title.

More about BRANSON

"I really can't see where we can avoid having a four-lane road," Branson stated, a bit reluctantly.

It is only a matter of time, he said, suggesting that we should make time work to our advantage. Here again, he said, whether we like it or not, is beside the point. Something has to be done about the traffic and he sees no other solution.

While one road perigrinating along the river may be more desirable scenically, he feels this is completely unfeasible because of cost. And although there are some property owners (such as his wife's family, the Hattons) who would be willing to dedicate land, by the time the entire Valley was traversed there would be too large a take on property owners who could not afford to give land or have the land taken from them by condemnation.

Branson concluded that he felt widening the present road would be the least objectionable and the least costly to all concerned. He feels that people in the Valley must stick together and suppress any ideas of a grandiose "autobahn" that would dump fast-moving traffic into a rural situation. By four lanes, he hastily added, he does not mean a divided highway, but only a wider Carmel Valley Road.

Speaking of filling his predecessor's shoes, Branson said there were many things that Tom had been a champion for that he admired and respected and that he would try to be as worthy a champion in that respect.

"However," he concluded, "I am a different person and there are many things on which I take a different view.

"I am not as familiar with a lot of matters and will have to study up a lot. But maybe being a little less informed and working on it will help me to be objective," he reflected.

We finished the interview speaking of politics and elections and Willard Branson said that, belonging as he does to a political party whose policy is one of free enterprise, he feels this is one of the greatest strengths in the country, and he would fight to the death for anyone's right to earn money honestly . . . as long as it was not at the expense of other people.

Branson repeated that he would definitely run in the next supervisors' election, which comes up in two years. He said he hoped and intended to do such a good job as supervisor that when election time came around, there would be no question about his being returned to office.

Thrift shop to halve prices for big sale

A three day half price sale will be held to celebrate the third birthday of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Thrift Shop from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 30 and 31 and from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 1.

Items currently on display will be marked down to half of their already bargain prices.

The thrift shop was organized Jan. 16, 1964 at the home of Mrs. Joseph Murphy and the doors opened on March 7.

Success through the years can be attributed to the long hours of service by the three guiding lights of the shop: Mrs. Donald Waylett, Mrs. Amy Mylar, and Mrs. Elbert Wade, and to Mrs. Thomas McKiernon, who has charge of staffing the shop, and phones each worker the night before to remind them "Tomorrow is the day."

Workers include Mmes. James Bundgard, Walter Mauzey, Theo Mirani, Robert Ray, Philip Wright, Louis Gardner, Frank Graham, Joseph Baudouin, George Greer, Mark Hattan, Roy Kaminske, Howard Vail, W.R. Moore, Merle Johnson, Stella Miller, Ralph Mills, S.N. Trevino, Paul Edwards, Joseph Murphy, John Hughes, Louis Baeriswyl, and Miss Esther Trevino.

A snack bar will be set up in the Chapel kitchen during the hours of the sale.

The Rhyming Philosopher

I live in a house which is mostly like your's,
With a roof and a chimney and windows and doors.
But here the resemblance undoubtedly ceases
When hearing my story and counting the pieces.
There's eighty-nine lamps to illumine the gloom,
With all kinds of cactus which bloom in each room.
The kitchen is crowded with magical roasters
And blenders and endless impractical toasters.
My study is stacked to the ceiling with cans
And, further, my wife is revealing her plans
To pile up more groceries high in the attic –
But let me assure you she's not psychopathic.
She buys all this loot such as band-aids and lamps
To hoard up those blue-chip and green trading stamps.
She sticks them in books which she's got by the acre,
But needs fifty more for a trip to Jamaica.

I've argued so much I broke out in a rash
Explaining the merits of saving the cash.
She answers me: "Stupid, you hear'd full of stuffing,
The stamps I get free, so the trip costs me nothing!"

Nature knows best

It is a tremendous temptation to landscape the river bank and clear out all that "old raspberry and genista" . . . if one happens to be a river dweller. Conservationists keep telling us that the native plants grab hold and keep erosion from happening on the hillsides and this is also true of the river banks.

Whenever the Carmel River goes rampaging, it points up this fact. Although high water will take its toll any place it can go, the surging current is much more apt to undermine banks that have been cultivated.

This was demonstrated last week when high water undercut a bank that had endured much flooding and great chunks of land fell into the river. The undermining was confined only to an area that had been cleared . . . the line of devastation stopped abruptly at the point where the tangled natural growth remained.

Erosion has followed throughout history and in different areas of our country when over-cultivation has removed nature's means of controlling the land. When bulldozers take down the hillside trees, and cut platforms for houses, the hillsides begin to go. When deep cuts are taken for roadways, the bare scars also erode, making more of an eyesore and hazard when water and mud stream across the roadway during storms. And by the same token when the river bank is cleared or planted in shallow-rooted grass, it is that much easier for the current to surge against the earth and pull it under.

Man has become master of much, but nature has a way of proving us really insignificant when we go against her way of managing natural resources.

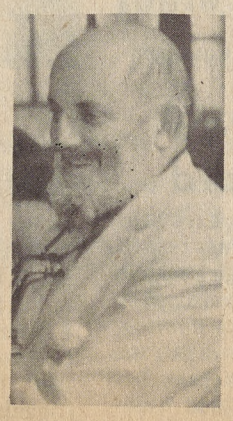
Recreation vs. re-creation



By Ansel Adams

(The following from Sierra Club Director Ansel Adams of Carmel Highlands refers to former chairman Bruce Meyer's annual report to the board of directors on Ventana Chapter activities during 1966)

I was greatly impressed by the progress of the Ventana Chapter in 1966. I think we are easily one of the most progressive chapters of the Sierra Club, and have had the benefit of a dedicated and intelligent leadership from the start.

The battles the Club is engaged in are the most important in our history. We seem to be doing fairly well in some of them—surprisingly so, in view of the great opposition. But we must always remember that the conservationists are in the minority, that their ideals and goals are devoid of self-interest and profit, and that the public at large understands recreation much better than it does re-creation.

I firmly believe that our policy should be one of cooperation and persuasion, rather than blind opposition and antagonism. Occasionally a strong free-swinging fight may indicate that we "mean business," but in the main, our "opponents" are faced with their own severe problems to carry out the mandate from the public; they need education, enlightenment and assistance. This should always be our first approach; then, if not effective, we can increase our "belligerent potential." This does NOT infer any weakening of our principles or our resolution!

SCHOOL NEWS

In the fourth grade, students in California schools study the history and development of their state. One of the high points of the year for youngsters at Tularcitos School comes when they make the annual field trip to visit Carmel Mission, the Customs House and Pacific House in Monterey. The museums in all three of these historic structures make the history study a very real story, relating the days of the past to our modern Monterey Peninsula.

The combined fourth grades of Regina Duggan, Robert Hoover and Fred Pomeroy made that excursion last Wednesday. Accompanying the 68 students and three teachers were Mrs. Theo Mirani and Mrs. John Woods, both of whom are mothers of fourth graders.

The group left Tularcitos School by bus shortly after 9 a.m. They visited the mission first and then continued to Monterey where they ate their picnic lunches on the beach by the Customs House.

It was only after the tours were over and the fourth graders were back in the bus and on their way out the Valley that the rain began.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Carmel High School student body, I would like to thank all those voters who helped pass the much needed override tax bond last Tuesday. We know that the voters won't regret the small tax increase, as it will help make it possible for Carmel students to obtain a better education in the future.

We would also like to thank this publication for all its help and support during the campaign, without which our small efforts would have been in vain.

Sincerely,
Diane Davis
Student Body Secretary

To the Editor:

I would like to express my heartfelt appreciation to the Carmel Valley Outlook for the support and endorsement it gave to the Carmel Unified School District during the recent override tax campaign.

Over the years The Outlook has consistently taken a keen and active interest in the affairs of the District. This is very gratifying to me personally and as a Trustee of the District.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Steven H. Sassoon

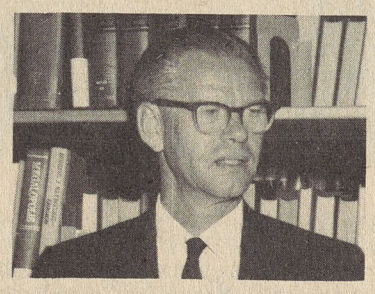
In Short

PETER SLEVIN, ye olde Irish thatcher, whose spectacular success with the roof of Carl Bensberg's cottage on Rio Road was the talk of Carmel, is now happily settled in Victoria B.C., rethatching the replica of Anne Hathaway's cottage at the Ye Olde English Inn there.

He'll take his time at it (for there are lots of friendly people in Victoria to talk to) until late spring when he'll fly to Plymouth, Mass., to work on some authentic colonial cottages at the Plimouth (correct olde English spelling) Historical Foundation there.

"FM AND THE ARTS" magazine will carry a feature profile on Carmel's Belgian-born Liliane De Cock, talented photographer and assistant to Ansel Adams, with photographs, in its April issue.

"CARTOONIST Hank Ketcham of 'Dennis the Menace' (700 papers), who deserted Carmel Valley some years ago for the tax and other advantages of Geneva, is also living high, hogwise," says Herb Caen in one of his S.F. Chronicle columns last week on his Switzerland vacation. "He and his wife occupy a luxurious penthouse overlooking the lake (Dennis, now 19, is in the Marines). His studio is the entire top floor of a downtown office building, likewise overlooking the lake. His favorite drinking place is the rooftop bar of the Intercontinental Hotel, a sort of Swiss Top o' the Mark—or should we say Top o' the Franc?"



Prof. George Thaler

PROF. GEORGE THALER of the Naval Postgraduate School's Electrical Engineering Dept. has accepted an invitation to be a member of an international scientific committee of a symposium on system sensitivity and adaptivity to be held in Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia in August, 1968. Dr. Thaler holds a doctorate in engineering from the Johns Hopkins University, and has been a member of the faculty of NPGS since 1951. He lives at Marguerita Way, Rancho Rio Vista, Carmel Valley.

THERE ARE TWO familiar faces back in the Valley as Harry and Rascha Gillett resume operation of Rancho del Monte Country Club. Tony, the club's black four-footed mascot is back too.

Although they won't be ready quite in time for the traditional April 1st opening, the Gilletts expect to be in full swing by the last week of the month. They will be stressing the swimming and tennis club atmosphere as before, but will restrict their food operation to breakfasts, brunches and lunches. Dinner will not be served except for special groups and private parties.

Valleyite Bob Kvenild is one of the active members of the group and joined the boys in their trip. They expect to camp out and exist on canned food which they "begged, borrowed or stole" from their homes. Much of the cost of the trip will be financed by proceeds that the group has raised from surfing movies which they have sponsored on the Peninsula.

Poor eating habits to blame for most heart-attack mortality

By James Short, M.D.

(Many verbal questions have been received as a result of these articles on health. Send them along, but better still write them out. My memory sometimes fails me. Write c/o The Outlook or to me at 103 Robles del Rio, telephone 659-4223.)

Even though cholesterol is essential to normal body function, to many people it's a bad word. The normal amount in blood serum is about 150-250 mg. per 100 cubic centimeters. A content of over 300 mg. is considered abnormally high. These figures are what people refer to when they speak of their "cholesterol count." But what is so objectionable about cholesterol?

Cholesterol is concerned with hardening of the arteries, especially those arteries in and around the heart. The proper term for this is atherosclerosis. Atherosclerosis causes higher mortality than any other disorder. There is, in this condition, an accumulation of cholesterol in the blood vessel wall. This narrows the channel and gradually obstructs the flow of blood.

People with atherosclerosis usually have high levels of cholesterol. Other fatty substances have also been studied extensively by our modern scientific techniques, but it's generally agreed that the cholesterol level gives as good a picture of any derangement as more complicated methods. That's why you hear so much about cholesterol today and why your doctor is so much interested in it.

What pushes it up, and how can we keep it down? Aside from the hereditary factors, of which we know too little, there's the problem of diet. Studies carried on among Orientals, Africans, Europeans, and Americans show that people who eat a low-fat diet have very little coronary heart disease. In fact, coronary heart attacks are peculiar to Americans and to certain Europeans where the fat intake is high.

The average American diet contains 40% or more calories from fat. Americans like fat, especially cream, meat gravies, and butter. Beef steaks, which our people enjoy so much, are marbled with fat. Steaks appear to contain more fat than formerly, especially the choice, expensive cuts. And meats are not trimmed as extensively as they used to be.

The suet which used to be "for the birds" is now sold for human consumption. Hamburgers also have a large proportion of fat. Without doubt, we are an overnourished people. Ice cream, cream cheese, whipped cream desserts, and sour cream dressings are piling up woes for the future. Too many calories, the wrong kind of foods, and overweight are all factors leading to coronary heart attacks. Most of our mortality from heart attacks can undoubtedly be laid directly to our poor eating habits.

Consider this: In medical practice in New York and Los Angeles over many years, coronary heart disease was commonplace. Recently, during one year in Korea where I saw several thousand patients in a private hospital, not one case of coronary disease did I find. Why? Undoubtedly because of the Korean diet. No, it wasn't an ideal diet. It was deficient in many respects. It consisted largely of rice and vegetables. But it contained very little fat—hence the absence of atherosclerosis and heart attacks.

On the contrary, many young Americans killed in Korea were found to have early atherosclerosis. They had been on the typical high calorie, high fat American diet. We learned from this that atherosclerosis begins at an early age.

Now in his third season with the San Francisco Orchestra as concertmaster, he has also held that musical post with the Cleveland Orchestra, Philadelphia Orchestra, Amsterdam Concertgebouw and the Vienna State Opera Orchestra. Mr. Krachmalnick will present Bruch's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in G Minor."

Appearing with him in the "Sinfonia Concertante for Violin, Viola and Orchestra" by Mozart is Harry Rumpler. A former member of the Los Angeles Philharmonic, he is now playing viola with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and the San Francisco Opera Orchestra.

Outlook On Carmel

JUST SHORTLY before the plane crash which injured her bridegroom-to-be and members of the wedding party, Gay Powers (right) opened gifts at a shower given for her by Mrs. Roderick Dewar and Mrs. Hans Von Richter at the home of Mrs. Les Dewar. Exclaiming over the gift are Mrs. Pringle (center) mother of Bill Pringle, Gay's fiance, and Mrs. Gallatin Powers (left), mother of the bride-to-be. Young Pringle was flying from southern California in a plane piloted by Fred Palmer, who was to be a member of the wedding party along with Richard Bronson of San Francisco. The fourth person on board was Palmer's wife, Jacqueline. Their plane crashed on Hurricane Peak, south of Carmel, but all miraculously survived the crash landing and are in fair condition at Community Hospital. The wedding has been postponed.

Carmel Women's Club unit to hear Mrs. Oehler

"Dakar to South Arabia via Timbuktu," will be the subject of Mrs. Helen Gapen Oehler's illustrated lecture before the Book Section of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday, Mar. 27 at 2 p.m.

This world traveler who has visited, sketched and taken color films in 126 different countries during numerous painting and photographic expeditions, is an internationally-known painter as well. Mrs. Oehler's work in watercolor and oil has been exhibited with distinction throughout the United States and Europe. She currently has a solo watercolor show touring the country, and her work is on display in the deYoung Museum. Mrs. Oehler's work has been displayed recently in the Carmel Valley Gallery and at Hacienda Carmel.

Mrs. Oehler brings the artist's trained eye to the subjects she photographs during her travels.

This past year's five-month's journey took Mrs. Oehler to 22 countries she had not visited previously, and to ten which she was re-visiting. Besides Africa, it included Seville for Easter Week, Sicily, Corsica, back to North Africa for Morocco, then to the Riviera, the Costa del Sol, Zurich and the Balkans.

A member of an Illinois family many of whom found careers in music, Helen Gapen Oehler also studied music until she found her talents lay in the realm of art. She became an honor graduate of the Chicago Art Institute, then a member of its faculty and its librarian. Mrs. Oehler has taught and supervised art in a number of schools, and with her husband began her travels as sketching trips to Canada, Bermuda, Mexico, Scandinavia and then farther afield. When he retired they moved from the New York area to Mt. Tamalpai, and later to Hacienda Carmel where they now live.

No fool in' — Kite Festival coming up April 1

The day for the annual Carmel Kite Festival is rapidly approaching and kite enthusiasts are busily designing and engineering objects which they hope will not only fly high and wide, but also float off with one of the prizes. Barring the event of inclement weather, the festival will be held on Saturday, April 1, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. at the Carmel Middle School Athletic Field.

The usual regulations for the contest will apply. Each kite must be made by the contestant and MUST get into the air and fly in order to be eligible.

Each kite may be entered in one of four age groups only. These are: 8 years and younger; 9-12 years; 13-15 years; and adults over 15 years.

The three prize categories for each group are the same as before. These are first place for highest flying kite, second place for best workmanship and third place for prettiest kite.

In addition to the class awards the Willis White prize, commemorating the founder of the contest will be awarded for the Best International Design and the Ernest Calley Perpetual Plaque will be awarded to the Champion kite. All prizes are donated by the Carmel Lions Club who co-sponsor the contest along with the CUSD Recreation Dept.

Carlson out of school board race

William H. Carlson of Rancho Rio Vista who filed for the Carmel Unified School District trustee election has withdrawn his name as a candidate.

He stated that since he felt the district will have more than adequate operating funds for the next five years and because he had been advised to reduce any strenuous outside activity, he would lend his support to Curtis A. Pringle.

Pringle, also a Rancho Rio Vista resident, filed on the final day along with Carlson. This brings the final number of candidates to seven. There are three seats to be filled on the board, with two incumbents, Dr. Hilton Bialek and Steven Sassoon running for their present posts. Others who are running in the election, which will be held April 18, are Richard T. Wilsdon, Thomas Moore, Dorothy Woodward Jones and Agnese Martineau.

Art Association invites artists

The 1967 Board of Directors of the Carmel Art Association invite area artists to submit three mounted drawings and three paintings (sculptors three pieces) for application for membership in the Association. Work should be brought to the Gallery, 6th and Dolores, Carmel between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday, April 11.

On April 12, all paintings and sculpture submitted will be previewed with care. The artists whose work is considered outstanding will be asked to submit more work, and from this group artists will be selected as future members of the Carmel Art Association.

Under the oaks and among the cacti

By Mildred Hattan

Margaret Mann of Valle Vista, accompanied by Mrs. Mary S. Stevens, spent last week in San Diego where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Girard. The Girards qualify as former Valleyites since they lived in the Mann home for three months while she traveled. Mrs. Stevens is from Arlington, Vt., and is enroute home from Hawaii. She will make her headquarters at Canary Cottages during her month's visit in the Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin D. Eagan of Boronda Road were in San Francisco last weekend to attend the wedding of Marty's nephew, Timothy Eagan. The ceremony performed at St. John's Presbyterian Church united Tim and the former Barbara Bruce of Atlantic City, N.J. A reception followed at Forest Lodge.

The young couple will make their home in San Francisco where Tim, a graduate of Dartmouth, is taking a two-year post-graduate course at Hastings Law School, while Barbara, employed by the phone company, also instructs classes in modern dance. The newlyweds will take time from their busy schedule to spend part of their Easter vacation in the Valley.

"Wearin' 'O the Green" was the theme of the informal modeling held during the luncheon hour Thursday at Rippling River Resort. The plan devised by the RRR staff and Joanne's Boutique and Joanne's Sportswear to bring people to the Valley for the weekly luncheons, has met with an enthusiastic response. People locally and from many nearby towns are forming the habit of making up a party and joining the fun. Coordinator for the show is Mrs. Jack (Honey) Lundin.

Models in recent weeks have been Mmes. Richard Dick, Tom Henderson, Lindon Egli, William Nelson, and Y. Ascarate. Modeling at the pre-St. Patrick's Day showing were Mmes. William (O!) Hall, Bernard (O!) Villar, Katherine (O!) Vincent, and Honey (O!) Lundin.

Chicks, rabbits, and Easter eggs of yellow and pink decorated the luncheon table at the party celebrating the fourth birthday of Debbie Wolff, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. J.D. Wolff, 19 Berwick Dr. Assisting Debbie's mother with party arrangements was Mrs. Keith Morgan.

Enjoying the afternoon were Maria Sanders, Ross Naton, Tana Yokomizo, Carla Bethea, Kim and Jeff Morgan, and Debbie's brother, Jeff.

Much happiness to Mr. and Mrs. John E. Tucker who leave many friends made during the five years that their home was on W. Carmel Valley Road. Maud and John have purchased a luxurious mobile trailer and will park their retirement home in Merced to be near their family.

The Valley Bridge Club held their monthly masterpoint tournament last Tuesday evening at the Community Center. Awards for the duplicate bridge tournament were awarded to Mrs. Robert Angell and Mrs. Arno Hanel for first place, Mrs. Dale Vandervort and Mrs. John Hudelson for second and Michael Antoncich and Maurice Stoney who placed third.

Mrs. Ida Read of Denver, Colo., is a visitor on Berwick Drive where she was greeted by her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris, Kim, Brian, Laura, and Mary, and the many Valley friends made on previous visits.

It is evident that the old cliche "Everybody loves a lover" still rings true from the number of smiles counted on the faces of people who stopped to read the clever wedding announcement painted on the window of the Carmel Valley Cleaners. The bride and groom topping the elaborate wedding cake were identified as Shirley Kenyon and Ray Halley who recently purchased the cleaning establishment from Marie and Herman Tedrow. Their announcement also read, "We will be closed on Friday March 10th to Tuesday March 14"...Congratulations and much happiness, Mr. and Mrs. Halley!

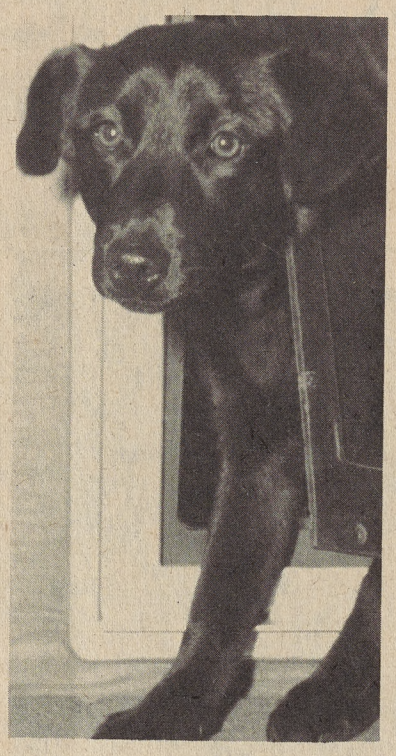
Fire Dept. aux. elects officers

Officers for the coming year were elected at the dessert meeting held Thursday evening at the Paso Hondo home of Mrs. George Palmer by ladies of the Auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Dept. Mrs. Erasimo Belleci will head the slate of officers for the new year assisted by Mrs. William Ijams, vice president; Mrs. John Woods, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Arthur Harber, recording secretary, and Mrs. George Palmer, treasurer.

The installation dinner will take place on April 9 at 8 p.m. at Rippling River Resort. Mrs. William Parham is accepting reservations for the dinner meeting at 659-2465.

Pet of the week



THEY CALL him "Blackie" at the SPCA Animal Shelter, but you could christen him something more distinguished if he were your dog. Buy him a license and get him his shots and he'll love you forever. He's four months old and his silky all-black coat is inherited from Labrador ancestors.

You may phone 375-3333 to find out more about him or go see him at the shelter at 2099 David, Monterey, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. any day except Thursday and Sunday.

More Oaks and Cacti

A former resident of Descanso Oaks, Mrs. Lila Kawananakoa, is greeting former neighbors and friends with "aloha" while here on a brief visit to the Peninsula from her home in Honolulu. Her son, David, and daughter, Regina, remained in the Islands during her visit here with her son, Edward, who is completing his senior year at Carmel High School.

A FIVE layer chocolate cake and nine little boys... a perfect combination agreed the guests invited to Jeff Johnson's seventh birthday party last week! The children were transported to Hampton's Happy Valley Birthday Park in Salinas by Jeff's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Don Johnson, and Mrs. Paul Naton, where movies were made of the happy afternoon.

"Stars" of the film were Colin Barry, Chris Anderson, John Park, Paul Naton, Douglas Lake, Kenny Jones, Steven Doelman and Gary Condren.

And speaking of "tourist stoppers" the Zorro-type character who rode horseback through the Village one rainy night dressed in a black hat, mask, cape and embroidered Charro pants (in truth, a CVYO publicity stunt to advertise their children's movie, "The Three Swords of Zorro"), shook up a few of the local residents as well as some transfixed out-of-towners!...

Convinced that March came in like the proverbial lamb are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Casarez, 15 Lower Circle, who named their March 1st arrival, Lloyd Peter. The birth weight was 7 lbs. 14 oz. of their third son who is the namesake of his father and his uncle, Peter Garneau. His brothers are David, 3 1/2, and Louie, 2 1/2.

Grandparents of the boys are paternal grandmother Mrs. J.L. Casarez of Salinas, Mrs. Charlotte Kelley, maternal grandmother of Carmel Valley, and Romie Garneau, paternal grandfather of Pebble Beach. Their maternal great-grandparents are Mrs. Frances Roller, W. Carmel Valley Rd., and Mr. Louis Roller of Via Milpitas.

Mr. and Mrs. James Norman Bundgard and daughter, Heidi, of 26 Live Oak Lane, are enjoying their house guest from Sacramento who is Doris's mother, Mrs. Mathew A. Little.

Customers at the Chatterbox Restaurant have been missing the cheery greeting of their hostess, Mrs. Art (Elaine) Fosso who is a patient in Room 214 at the Community Hospital following surgery. A speedy recovery to Elaine, and to Mrs. Frances Roller who also is recuperating at the Community Hospital where she was taken by the Red Cross Ambulance operated by the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Dept.

Mrs. Roller, who has been a resident of the San Carlos Hotel for three years, came to the Valley a month ago to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Kelley of W. Carmel Valley Road.

Also happy to report the progress and send best wishes to Mrs. William (Beulah Karney) Powers. One of the Valley's favorite authors who broke her hip and arm in a fall, has been transferred from the Community Hospital to the Skyline Convalescent Hospital.

Anniversary congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock of Merrill Way who celebrated their "china" or twentieth anniversary of their wedding date last weekend. On Friday they drove to Belmont where they were feted by their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Hawkins and family. On Saturday they were guests of friends in San Francisco.

Did you know that almost 50% of the world's two-hundred-million telephones are in the United States? In fact, your phone is one of more than 10 million in California alone! Our state has more telephones than countries like Russia (7.9), Canada (7.4), France (6.1), or Italy (5.9). Here's another fact you might find interesting: the average Monterey Peninsula resident makes 622 calls per year. Which just goes to show how much people depend on their phone to get things done.

Planning a program for your group or club? We'll be glad to arrange an interesting lecture or demonstration on one of the many phases of telephone communications. Just give us a call or drop in and chat about it.

• • •

Dialing long distance calls direct is faster and easier than placing calls through the Operator. And, if for some reason you reach a wrong number after dialing, it's just as easy to be sure you're not charged for the call.

After you hang up, dial "0" for Operator, and tell her you've reached a wrong number. She'll ask you the number you were trying to dial, and help you complete your call. We want to be sure you don't pay for a call that goes to a wrong number.

• • •

Want answers to an income tax problem? Again this year, the Internal Revenue Service has people on duty to answer your questions by telephone. If there's an office near you, you'll find the number in the white pages of your telephone book under the heading: "United States Government, Internal Revenue Service."

Cookery Corner

Cookies for Easter or any occasion are very special when made with love and care. SUE McFADDEN has a reputation for doing just that. You might say she is a famous cooky cook in the neighborhood of her home on Sage Rd.

Michael, 9, Denise, 8, Tim, 7 and Stacia, 6, are cookie consumers par excellence. With three birthdays in July and one in August, they eat cake all summer and enjoy cookies the rest of the year. Their father, Dee McFadden, likes to take a variety in his lunch box to work at the Monterey Police Dept.

Sue chose four of their favorites to share with us. She suggests getting the children into the act during vacation. They like to do the rolling, shaping or cutting. She has found that cooky dough is practically indestructible after it's properly mixed.

MOCHA DISCS

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 square melted unsweetened chocolate
1 ts. vanilla
2 ts. instant coffee powder
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 ts. salt
3/4 cup finely chopped walnuts

Cream shortening and sugar till fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in chocolate and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients. Chill for several hours, then form teaspoonsful into balls and roll in nuts. Place 2 inches apart on greased cooky sheet and bake at 375 for 12 minutes. Makes 2 1/2 dozen.

SUGAR COOKY CUT-OUTS

Most youngsters look forward to crunchy cookies cut into bunnies, ducks and chicks at Eastertime. Here's the recipe Sue has used for years. She tints part of the dough yellow (for ducks and chicks) and part pink (for bunnies). She frosts some and on others she sprinkles colored sugars before baking.

1 cup margarine
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 ts. baking powder
3 1/2 cups all purpose flour
1 1/2 ts. vanilla

Cream margarine, sugar and eggs together. Add dry ingredients and chill for at least 3 hours or overnight (or even a couple of days). Roll out 1/2 to 1/4 inches thick and cut into favorite creatures. Transfer with wide spatula onto ungreased sheet. Bake at 400 8 to 10 minutes.

BROWN SUGAR MACAROONS

1 1/4 cups shortening
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup chopped walnuts
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/3 ts. baking soda
1/2 ts. salt
1 cup rolled oats
2 cups grated, shredded or flaked coconut

Cream shortening, add sugar, add eggs and beat together. Mix dry ingredients. Add oats, walnuts and coconut. Roll into balls about the size of a walnut and place on ungreased baking sheet about two inches apart. Bake at 350 for about 12 minutes and cool on wire racks (this is important, Sue says). Makes about 8 dozen cookies.

LEMON TEA CAKES

1 1/2 ts. vinegar
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 ts. shredded lemon peel
1 3/4 cups all purpose flour
1 ts. baking powder
1/4 ts. soda
1/4 ts. salt

Stir vinegar into milk. Cream butter and sugar and add egg and peel. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating smooth after each addition. Drop from teaspoon two inches apart on an ungreased sheet. Bake 12 to 14 minutes at 350. Remove at once from pans and brush tops with lemon glaze made with 3/4 cup granulated sugar and 1/4 cup lemon juice. Brush cookies while still warm. For a thicker icing use powdered sugar instead of granulated and spread while warm for a smooth, shiny coating.

SCHOOL SCIENCE F
FOR STUDENTS AND

With scientific discoveries happening daily and advanced methods of communication spreading the knowledge, it is natural that today's children would be much more aware of the scientific approach at an earlier age. The elementary school science fair has demonstrated this in the types of experiments that are exhibited by youngsters at the fifth and sixth grade levels.

For the second year, Tularcitos School in Carmel Valley conducted a science fair under the direction of teacher Mrs. Peggy Mervine.

The projects are planned as a long-term assignment, chosen in October and completed in February. In addition to the experiment itself, a term paper is also required.

The science project has a five-fold approach. It helps develop skills in the use of a scientific method of solving problems. It stimulates the use of acquired facts, and applies reasoning as well as creativity. It stimulates exploration, observation and discovery, and enables the student to acquire additional knowledge and skills. And it is valuable in building interest in programs of human welfare.

The primary objective of the project should express an attempt to solve a problem, and to qualify it must show partial or final conclusions through the use of scientific methods.

ICE FAIRS ARE FUN AND INFORMATIVE
AND SPECTATORS

Photos by Robert Isaacs

This year the judges had a very difficult time choosing winners from the 68 entries at Tularcitos School. The exhibits are not identified by name, so that an unbiased judgement may be attained. The awards are given on the basis of 1) scientific thought, 2) creative ability, 3) thoroughness, 4) clarity, 5) dramatic value, and 6) technical skill.

Projects which were entered covered a wide range of questions in physical, chemical, botanical and zoological sciences.

A representative listing of projects revealed studies on plants and factors relating to their growth, crystals, rocks and their formation, how to prevent erosion, friction and its causes, growth of mold, optical illusions, how to measure expansion of metal, how guppies breed and what noises dogs react to.

Projects entered in the exhibit were prepared under the rules and regulations for the Tri-County Science Fair which includes projects from private or public schools in Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties. Although all students in these grades are required to do a science project, entry in the science fair, either at Tularcitos or at the Tri-County level, is voluntary.

Four winners from the local fair, Regina Howland, Karen McCurry, Sallie Bennett and Leslie Read, plan on entering their experiments in the Tri-County, which will be held April 12-16 at Hartnell College in Salinas.

LYDIA BRESK, Sherie Swiess, Kathy Simpson and Patty Groves stopped to read the conclusions that Robin Wilson drew from her experiment with beans. She tested growing plants to see what was the optimum temperature for growth. Her project was awarded the sixth grade third place.

The Sierra Club goes over the mountain

Up—up to the top of the mountain range just north of Carmel Valley Village, 43 hikers climbed several Sundays ago.

It was another successful outing of members of Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, which sponsors a hike, sometimes two or three, nearly every weekend.

Led by Valleyites Jim Ziegler and Doyt Early, the hikers enjoyed an easy walk of about five miles from the end of Country Club Dr., up jeep trails and across meadows, to the summit on the Don Roberts' ranch. After a picnic lunch, the group wended its way back the same way.

Having a fine time was a varied crowd, from a skinny five-year-old boy to sturdy grey-haired hikers.

CURIOUS COWS slant down on the nervous crowd. One youthful bull insisted on falling in behind the line of hikers, who kept a wary eye on his intentions, which turned out to be entirely friendly.

THE GOING GOT WARM on a day of sunny beauty and sweaters were promptly peeled shortly after the group took off from the top of Country Club Dr.

CHARGE! across a field, the 43 hikers spread wide and enjoy the first lupines and a few early poppies in the grass

GOING IS always easier than coming, if it's downhill. Here the Sierra Clubbers head across a field on the beautiful Don Roberts' ranch above Carmel Valley Village.

PG&E's water wonderland.

More than 100 lakes for electricity... also provide recreation, irrigation, other benefits

Each year, runoff in many Northern and Central California mountain streams is captured and stored behind PG&E dams—forming scenic lakes for fishing, boating, camping and swimming.

This water turns the generators that make a lot of your PG&E electricity. Then it flows on for use by you and others in countless ways. Stored water is one of California's most precious resources.

Conservation is a PG&E Policy

From the McCloud River in the Cascades to the Kings River in the Sierra Nevada 300 miles south, PG&E's waterpower system includes more than 100 man-made lakes.

In addition to water conservation, we conserve the soil, trees, fish and wildlife on these properties—which we make available for your use and enjoyment. Our properties are open to all except in a very few instances where public safety prevents it.

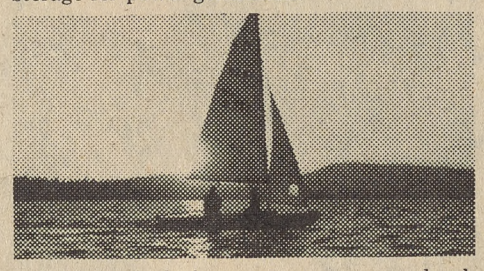
Campground and Picnic Areas

In many popular recreation areas we have provided campgrounds to encourage maximum use of PG&E lands for recreation. These facilities include tables, benches, stoves, refuse containers and restrooms. They're set up in areas that we care for like parks. And you're invited to use them.

To guide you to these campgrounds and picnic areas, we have published a free booklet with a map and descriptions of facilities at each location. It's called "Your 1967 Guide to PG&E Campgrounds and Picnic Areas." Ask any PG&E office for a copy.

PG&E Fishing Reports

Our releases of stored water for power generation help maintain stream flows throughout the summer. Many good fishing streams would be dry in summer and fall except for upstream storage for power generation.



Each week during trout season, our local hydro system employees provide a reliable report on stream conditions on dozens of watersheds as a free service to weekend anglers. This report is made available through more than 230 newspapers, radio and TV stations, outdoor publications and many sporting goods stores in Northern and Central California.

Biggest Family Bargain

Providing you with recreation facilities is a pleasant sideline to our main job of supplying you with high quality gas and electric service at the lowest possible rates.

You're probably using more appliances and conveniences than ever before, so your bill may be higher. But there have been five reductions in PG&E gas and electric rates since 1963, so PG&E energy is still the biggest bargain in your family budget.

Don McKenzie Sr. came to Valley in 1902 by horse and buggy on 'chalk rock road'

"What did the Valley look like in 1902?" Veteran resident Don McKenzie Sr. knows because he was here. That was the first time he lived here, when he was farming the ranch near the Farm Center where another veteran Valley resident, Perry McDonald lives.

McKenzie moved to the Valley to stay in 1936, but even then one could hardly call it crowded.

McKenzie got here the first time from Arroyo Grande in southern California and came over the Salinas grade with a hired carriage and horse. That was when they called it "The Chalk Rock Road," he recalls, and it was a far cry from the Grade Road of today.

REMEMBERS QUAKE

Between the 1902 visit and the permanent move in 1936, McKenzie pursued numerous fields of employment. He was working for the Hotel Del Monte in 1906 and saw the tall chimneys fall from the vibrations of the San Francisco Quake. At this time he was farming the land. Then in 1908 he bought a ranch in Watsonville and was in the lettuce business there, and in Salinas, in the early 1920's.

Then the family moved to King City and he and his daughter, Donna, operated a T.B. convalescent hospital in Jolon. After the county hospital was built, McKenzie looked back to Carmel Valley and moved back here with his family in 1936. Their home was what is now the Chatterbox Restaurant.

Three of his four children still live here in the Valley and the fourth, "Sis" Ammerman, has just recently moved north. Donna, Don Jr. and Dick McKenzie recall the days when they lived in that house and when their dad took over the restaurant that is now Will's Fargo. At that time it was known as the Tavern and there was open space all around it. It was when they were living there that their mother passed away.

In the early 1940's, McKenzie farmed and raised chickens for Fred Godwin at what is now the Tennis Ranch.

In 1943, McKenzie married his present wife, Frieda. He continued working with Godwin and in 1951 bought his present house in Robles del Rio.

Shortly before John Gardiner purchased the property for the Tennis Ranch, McKenzie decided to slow down and stop working.

HARD TO RETIRE

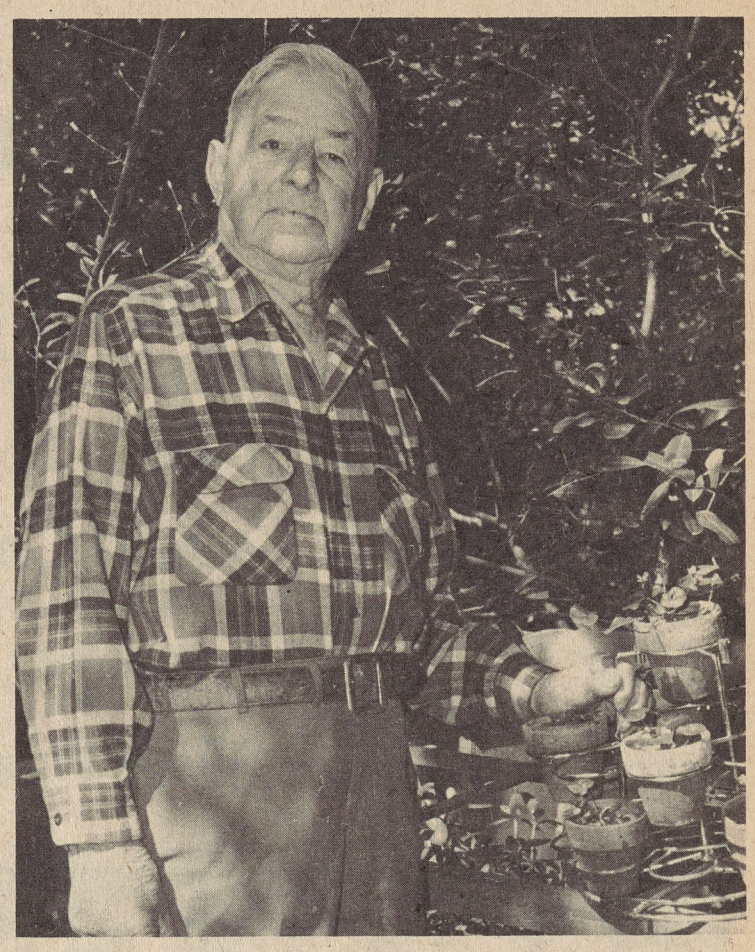
Last week Don McKenzie Sr. celebrated his 89th birthday and his wife Frieda recounted how hard it was to get him to finally retire. When he got out of the restaurant business and the farming, he stayed around the house and pursued his favorite hobby of gardening, but time became very heavy on his hands so he got the job of custodian for the old Tularcitos School, out the Valley. He worked there for over a year before someone in Salinas discovered that he had celebrated his 75th birthday and the county wasn't allowed to hire anyone over 72. He and Wayne Greenfield, then principal of Tularcitos School, deplored the regulation, but McKenzie "didn't want to break the law," so he stopped working for the school. He recommended someone else who became ill and had to go to the hospital. Don suddenly found himself back with a full-time job which he thought would last for a couple of weeks, but continued for seven or eight months. In the meantime, Don had been taking care of yards and gardens and when Hank Ketcham bought the ranch in Robles, he asked McKenzie to use his very "green thumb" at the property.

FROM ENGLAND

It's been a long, productive and interesting life for Don McKenzie Sr. who came here from his native England 75 years ago.

Anyone passing his rustic home on Esquiline Road can see the results of the green thumb which carried him through so many phases of farming. Fuchsias, begonias and a variety of other plants grow profusely and cascade down from pots on the balcony. It's easy to see that he still isn't satisfied with "just sitting around" even though he has certainly earned it. —GD

89th birthday celebration



DON McKENZIE SR. celebrated his 89th birthday anniversary with the traditional family barbecue in Big Sur recently. About 30 friends, relatives, children and assorted grandchildren turned out for the Fiesta. An avid gardener, Don was busily re-potting flowers the next day.
